When you need to provide copies of documents, you must get them certified. This proves they are true copies of the original.

To certify documents, take both the original documents and a photocopy to someone authorised to certify the copies. This includes legal practitioners, pharmacists, teachers, medical practitioners and Justices of the Peace.

For a full list of authorised certifiers, see justice.vic.gov.au/certifiedcopies.

You can also take your original document to a Justice Service Centre for certification.

For locations, visit justice.vic.gov.au/service-locations.

If you are interstate, any authorised witness or Justice of the Peace can certify documents.

You must mail current and certified copies of each identity document.

- The Registry only accepts current (not expired) and certified copies of documents by mail.
- The Registry does not accept photocopies of identity documents that are expired, uncertified or certified incorrectly.
- Failure to correctly submit your proof of identity documents will delay your application.

Applying from outside Australia?

If you live outside Australia, you can provide overseas equivalents to Australian identity documents, such as a foreign driver licence.

You may have photocopies of your identity documents certified by an Australian consulate or embassy official, a Notary Public or a local member of police.
